IF YOU ARE AT HIGHER RISK OF SERIOUS ILLNESS IF YOU GET COVID-19, CONSIDER TAKING THE FOLLOWING STEPS TO PROTECT YOURSELF WHILE AT WORK:

If you are at higher risk of serious illness if you get COVID-19, consider taking the following steps to protect yourself while at work:

- (1) Ask your employer for a respirator. Wear it at all times while you are around others indoors, or while riding in a vehicle with others. If wearing a respirator is not for you, try “double masking” (wearing a well-fitting cloth face mask over a medical mask).
- (2) Keep 6 feet away from others if your working conditions allow it.
- (3) During break times, when you must remove your mask to eat or drink, try to do so outside and away from others. If you must eat inside around other people, open windows and doors and keep your distance from others, if possible.
- (4) Open windows or doors in your work area if it is safe to do so. Fresh air helps reduce the number of droplets in the air, reducing the risk of getting COVID-19.
- (5) If you get COVID-19, you can get medicines that treat COVID-19 and help keep you out of the hospital. These medicines work best when started as soon as possible after and within 5-7 days, depending on the medicine. Talk to your doctor or call (833) 540-0473. ## COVID-19 SAFETY: WORKERS' RIGHTS IN CALIFORNIA

Per Cal/OSHA, your employer is required to take steps to protect you from COVID-19. Know your rights and report violations by:

- Talking with your union representative.
- Filing a complaint with Cal/OSHA by calling 833-579-0927.
- Filing a complaint with the Department of Public Health by calling 888-700-7995, Monday through Friday from 8-5pm. You can file your complaint anonymously.

EMPLOYEE TRAINING

- Your employer must have a plan to prevent the spread of COVID-19 in the workplace. They must provide all workers training on the COVID-19 prevention plan and their rights under the state Cal/OSHA rules.

PERSONAL PROTECTIVE EQUIPMENT (OR "PPE")

- If you work around others indoors or work in vehicles with more than one person, your employer must offer you well-fitting masks and respirators. If you ask for N95 (NIOSH-certified) respirators, your employer must provide ones that are the right size as well as basic instructions on how to use them.
- As with all employer safety requirements, the cost of masks and respirators must not be passed on to employees. This means that your employer must give you masks or respirators and replace them for free.
- Your employer cannot discourage or retaliate against you for wearing a face mask while at work.
- While all masks provide some level of protection, well-fitting respirators, especially N95s, provide the best protection.
- Your respirator must be replaced if it gets damaged, deformed, wet, dirty, difficult to breathe through, or if it no longer fits well. If you use respirators, check the manufacturer's instructions to learn how long they can be worn before they should be thrown away. Medical masks should be thrown away after they are worn once.

TIME AND SUPPLIES FOR HANDWASHING

- Employers must provide handwashing stations stocked with soap and water and/or hand sanitizer. They must be stationed in your workplace and in any vehicles that you might be riding in.
- Employers must also provide you with enough time in your workday to wash or sanitize your hands.

 Know your rights.

COVID-19 TESTING

- Employers must offer testing free of charge and during work hours to any workers who:
  - o Have symptoms of COVID-19
  - o Had a close contact to COVID-19 at work or may have been exposed during a workplace outbreak, except for those who have recovered from COVID-19 in the past 90 days and are symptom-free.
  - o Need a test to keep working after an exposure at work or to return to work sooner when in isolation.
- Testing may be done through your employer, at your doctor's office or health center, the local health department, or at a community testing site. Your employer must cover all your testing costs, including paying your wages for your time to get tested (including travel to and from the testing site). They must also reimburse you for travel to a testing site (for example mileage or public transportation).

PAID LEAVE

- Your employer must pay for time off (known as exclusion pay) if you are asked to stay home from work because you got COVID-19 or were exposed to COVID-19 while on the job. They must pay you at your regular wage during the time you are required to stay home.
- You may also be able to get paid time off from work through the COVID-19 Supplemental Paid Sick Leave program to get a COVID-19 vaccine, to recover from vaccine-related symptoms, or if you need to care for a family member who has COVID-19 or needs to quarantine. See the COVID-19 Supplemental Paid Sick Leave poster and FAQ for more information.
